

A close-up, microscopic view of numerous snowflakes. The snowflakes exhibit a variety of hexagonal and dendritic shapes, with intricate internal structures and sharp edges. The background is a dark, blurred greenish-brown color, which makes the white, crystalline snowflakes stand out prominently. The lighting highlights the facets and ridges of the crystals, giving them a three-dimensional appearance.

EURANDOM wishes you Merry Christmas and a scientifically inspiring and fruitful New Year!